FAQs

What does “indica-dominant” mean for London Pound Cake?
It means that this cultivar tends to produce more relaxing, body-focused effects compared to sativa-dominant strains. Expect a gentle calm, help with evening wind-down, stress relief, and mild sedation without extreme couch lock in moderate doses.

Is London Pound Cake THCa Flower legal?
Yes, as long as the Δ9-THC content in the dried flower is $< 0.3\,\%$ (or per your local jurisdiction’s threshold). Verified lab tests show this strain typically complies. Always double-check state and local regulations before shipping or selling.

How should London Pound Cake be stored to preserve flavor & potency?
Store in airtight, light-blocking containers (opaque jars or vacuum sealed packaging), in a cool, dark environment between $\sim$ 60-70°F, and moderate humidity ($\sim$ 55-62 %). Avoid heat and light which degrade terpenes and convert THCa into Δ9-THC.

What is the minimum wholesale order quantity (MOQ)?
Wholesale MOQs generally start at 10 lbs, with better pricing at larger tiers (50 lbs, 100 lbs). Packaging and trim options often vary with volume.

Will I receive a full Certificate of Analysis (COA) with each batch?

Yes, reputable suppliers of London Pound Cake THCa flower provide COA verifying potency, terpene profile, heavy metals, pesticides, moisture, and microbiological safety.

What kind of effects and flavors will my customers experience?
Expect a rich dessert experience: buttery, vanilla-cake with lemon or citrus undertones. Effects are deeply relaxing, soothing body high, mild mood uplift, often used in evening or for symptom relief for stress, insomnia, or pain.
